

Student Learning Outcomes for B.A. in Psychology and Social Behavior

1. Evaluate social science claims critically in terms of research validity.
2. Interpret basic descriptive and inferential statistics found in social science reports.
3. Knowledge of basic concepts and theories over the broad field of psychology.
4. Apply psychological concepts by framing testable hypotheses, gathering and synthesizing appropriate data, and articulating clear results.